Krieg DeVault Authors Indiana Chapter of The Secured Finance Network Compendium of Secured Finance Law

September 25, 2019

Krieg DeVault LLP is proud to announce the publication by the Secured Finance Network (formerly the Commercial Finance Association) (“SFNet”) of The Secured Finance Network Compendium of Commercial Finance Law, of which Krieg DeVault authored the Indiana chapter. Founded in 1944, SFNet is an essential resource for all organizations and professionals who deliver and enable secured finance to businesses. As described by SFNet, through the Compendium SFNet members gain access to “a time-saving tool that enables [members] to research important legal issues related to secured transactions in any U.S. state within seconds.” The Compendium is published for asset-based lenders, factors, banks and other institutions engaged in secured transactions, and is designed to suggest the answer timely to many questions such lenders may have. More information about the Secured Finance Network and The Secured Finance Network Compendium of Commercial Finance Law, and the Indiana chapter authored by Krieg DeVault, may be found at sfnet.com.

The Krieg DeVault lawyers contributing to the Indiana chapter of The Secured Finance Network Compendium of Commercial Finance Law included Brett Ashton (Financial Institutions Practice Group), Kay Dee Baird (Creditors’ Rights and Bankruptcy Practice Group), John B. Baxter (Commercial and Real Estate Lending and Real Estate Practice Groups), Bradley S. Fuson (Financial Institutions, Business, Creditors’ Rights and Bankruptcy, and Real Estate Practice Groups), C. Daniel Motsinger (Creditors’ Rights and Bankruptcy Practice Group, and editor of the Indiana chapter of The Secured Finance Network Compendium of Commercial Finance Law), Matthew D. Neumann (Environmental, Real Estate, Insurance Recovery and Litigation Practice Groups), and Stephen A. Studer (Real Estate and Environmental, Business, Acquisitions and Securities, and Health Care Practice Groups).
