Krieg DeVault is pleased to announce that Partner Michael E. Williams has been selected to serve on the Executive Advisory Board at the Miller College of Business at Ball State University.

The Executive Advisory Board promotes interaction with industry leaders and plays a crucial role in ensuring our ongoing success and vitality. The boards support the University's mission in education, applied research, and service. Among other things, members offer counsel on curriculum matters, and maintain beneficial relationships with current students.

Mike Williams devotes his practice primarily to general corporate law, antitrust, corporate finance, mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures and financial services matters. Mr. Williams has participated in mergers and acquisitions of privately and publicly-held companies, and has represented companies with respect to complex corporate financial issues. He has represented companies in manufacturing, development and other forms of joint ventures and collaborations, and has also advised clients with respect to a variety of antitrust matters, including structuring global distribution arrangements, price fixing, collusion and monopoly issues. Mr. Williams has represented various clients before state and federal regulatory bodies, including the bank regulatory agencies for bank mergers and reorganizations, as well as the Department of Justice and Federal Trade Commission concerning antitrust matters. Mr. Williams served as the firm's Managing Partner from 1991 – 2014.
