

Manufacturing

At Krieg DeVault, our Manufacturing Industry Service Group is built on long-term partnerships with companies striving to grow, innovate, and maintain a competitive edge. We provide comprehensive solutions and strategic advice to manufacturers across a wide range of industries—including advanced technology, aerospace, industrial, commercial, agricultural, automotive, medical, and consumer goods.

Our team supports clients in navigating the complexities of modern manufacturing, including global supply chains, evolving regulatory landscapes, and operational risk management. We work closely with executives and in-house counsel to address legal issues throughout the entire production lifecycle—from sourcing raw materials and negotiating vendor contracts to managing workforce challenges and mitigating facility risks.

We also advise on strategic business transactions such as mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, and international investments. Our full-service, collaborative approach integrates deep experience across labor and employment, environmental law, intellectual property, product liability, antitrust compliance, tax and tax incentives, and litigation. Whether negotiating contracts or developing strategic alliance, we deliver responsive, business-focused solutions that align legal strategy with operational success.
